High grades draw low marks on police tests; investigation planned

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive Editor

GRANITE CITY—Illinois' Division of Criminal Investigation will investigate the results of police test scores two Granite City sergeants received in July 1985.

"We have received a request from the Madison County state's

"I don't have any problem with them investigating."

"There's an allegation that has to be followed up."

"It will get it out of politics."

attorney and we are investigating," said Bob Fletcher, a spokesman, at Springfield. The division's review is expected to take "a minimum of two to three weeks," Fletcher said. "I don't have any problem with them investigating," said 4th Ward Alderman Partney on Wednesday. "I think it will clear the air."

He is the former chairman of the Fire and Police Commission, and police tests were mailed to Partney's house. Scores achieved on the test by James Reader and David Rosenberg were the highest in the nation and resulted in both being promoted to sergeant. State's Attorney Dick Allen said Wednesday that he asked DCI to check the test scores at the request of Police Chief Bill Harris and John Hopkins, assistant city attorney.

"There's been an allegation that has to be followed up," Allen said. He said he is reserving judgment about the strength of the allegation until DCI completes its investigation.

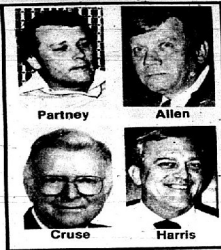

Harris said, "Let's wait and see what they uncover and then I'll make a comment."

The investigation is welcomed by Bob Barton, a former member of the city's Fire and Police Commission who served with Partney.

"It will get it out of politics," he said Wednesday. Barton said Mayor Von Dee Cruse is using the test issue against Partney.

"They (city investigators) now have what I gave to the mayor and city attorney 18 months ago, and they sat on it until they thought it would be politically advantageous," Barton said. "They want to stop Danny from running for mayor — to discredit the Partney faction."

"I don't want to get into that type of dialogue," Cruse said

Wednesday. "The investigation isn't political. We've got a situation here that the assistant city attorney thinks an investigation is warranted."

Partney said the mayor knows what his chief of police and assistant city attorney are doing. "He's got to be orchestrating it," Partney said.

DCI should not limit its investigation to testing, Partney said. He privately charged that some members of the police department have "been involved in 'excessive drinking,' 'pulling guns in taverns, harassing people,' and 'sexual misconduct.'"

The test issue was raised in the trial this week of Dan Partney's brother, David, a District 9 School Board member accused of driving under the influence of alcohol. The defense attempted to show David Partney was arrested by Patrolman Tim Lyerla because Lyerla holds a grudge against Dan Partney. Lyerla finished third on the police sergeant test and was not promoted.

Partney DUI trial under way

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE—The credibility of several Granite City policemen was at stake in the trial of School Board member David Partney, charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Partney's trial entered its second day Wednesday as his attorney, Leon Scroggins, tried to convince the jury that Partney was set up for the DUI arrest by two Granite City policemen.

Assistant State's Attorney Scott Cain sought to prove Partney was driving while intoxicated after Partney left Charlie's Restaurant and was arrested by Patrolman Tim Lyerla at about 4:06 a.m. April 17. Cain called Granite City policemen to testify about Partney's sobriety at Charlie's and at the police station.

Scroggins attempted to build the case that Lyerla set Partney up for the arrest with the assistance of off-duty patrolman Walter Milton Jr., who almost fought with Partney earlier at Charlie's. Scroggins also sought to discredit off-duty officers' testimony by attempting to prove their judgment was impaired because they had been drinking.

Partney maintains, though he had been drinking, he was not drunk when he was arrested and that Lyerla had no cause to follow and arrest him.

"... don't get in your car. They're out there, waiting."

Much of the testimony on Tuesday and Wednesday came from Granite City policemen who were at the station, and from off-duty officers who were at Charlie's the night of the arrest. The testimony was similar to that given by most of the officers at a previous hearing concerning whether Lyerla had probable cause to follow and arrest Partney.

In that testimony, patrolmen Scott Jenkins, Kenneth Dowdy and Lyerla said Partney appeared drunk when he was taken to the station after being arrested. Partney refused to take an alcohol breath test at the station and denied that Lyerla had administered three field sobriety tests. Lyerla said Partney failed the three tests after Lyerla pulled him over on Johnson Road at Del Rio Drive.

In the original testimony, Dowdy said he was standing in a hallway at the rear of the station when Lyerla brought Partney in the rear door. Dowdy said he smelled alcohol on Partney's breath and Partney was staggering and slurring his speech when he entered.

But when pressed by Scroggins on Wednesday, Dowdy was unsure. Dowdy said he wasn't sure if he was at the rear door or in the hallway and may have been near the front desk when Partney and Lyerla entered. But

Madison will license raffles

By Donna Kimbro
Staff writer

MADISON—An ordinance establishing licensing for organizations to operate fund-raising raffles won City Council approval Tuesday night.

The ordinance allows no unlicensed raffles in the city. A license is issued only to religious, charitable, labor, fraternal, education or veterans organizations that operate without profit to their members and that have been in existence continuously for five or more years.

An applicant must file a written application, accompanied by a $5 fee, in the office of the city clerk. Included must be such information as the area of the city where raffle chances will be sold, the time of the project, when chances will be drawn, and a sworn statement that the organization is not for profit. The statement must be signed by the presiding officer and the secretary of the organization.

The city has 30 days to act on the application. Among conditions for a raffle are:

* The net proceeds must be used only for legal purposes of the organization.

* Only members of the sponsoring organization may participate.

Pontoon Beach to purchase squad cars

By Valeria Evenden
Staff writer

PONTOON BEACH—Strenuous objection by Trustee Loren Madison failed to deter the Board of Trustees from authorizing the purchase of three used police vehicles at a special meeting Wednesday night.

Madison's vigorously stated objections, occasionally said in a humorous tone but with some table pounding for emphasis, focused on his obvious distaste for used police cars and the village's financial obligations.

The village will lease-purchase three 1984 Chevrolet Impala sedans, two fully equipped with lights and radios, the third to be equipped by the department itself, at a cost of $9,302 a year for a three-year period.

The first year's cost will be offset by a $3,500 insurance payment for the squad car totaled in a June 9 collision on Illinois 111, near Interstate 270. Trustees also voted to accept the insurance offer Wednesday night.

Illinois State Police are trying to reconstruct the scene of the accident in which motorcycleist Kevin W. Munner, 22, of Alton, fleeing from Wood River officers, was killed after colliding with the Pontoon Beach police vehicle, Board President Glen Wilson told trustees.

Trustee Bob Able, police committee chairman, reported the vehicles proposed for lease-purchase from Veto Enterprise of Chicago, a police vehicle leasing business, are in excellent shape.

The squad cars, turned in by another department for new vehicles, have mileage totals of 28,000, 38,000 and 39,000. They were examined Monday by Police Chief Chet Ballew, Police Sgt. Mike Crouch and Able at a Chevrolet dealership in Indianapolis.

"Why do we need three cars when we have two now? Who's going to drive them?" Madison asked.

"We've got a man driving 24 hours a day and we have one decent car now," Wilson said.

"You're still only going to have one decent car when you get these," Madison retorted, recalling some unpleasant experiences with used police cars.

'BAC bill' advances in Senate

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive Editor

GRANITE CITY—The "BAC bill" advances to final reading in the Illinois Senate next week, said Sen. Sam Vadala, D-Edwardsville.

Shortly after the bill passed second reading in the Senate on Tuesday, Vadala said the measure faced no opposition due to an amendment attached to it earlier in the Senate.

The change made the legislation applicable only to Belleville Area College. Prior to the amendment, the bill applied to community colleges throughout Illinois, which drew opposition from the Illinois Community College Trustees Association.

Vadala sponsors the legislation in the Senate. The bill's author, Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, agreed to the amendment offered by Vadala.

The BAC bill has bi-partisan support, including backing from Sen. Frank Watson, R-Greenville, and Sen. Ken Hall, D-East St. Louis.

The BAC bill could change how trustees are elected. At large elections for the community college could change to elections from subdistricts, similar to how some cities elect aldermen from wards.

Wolf and others support the bill because voters in Madison County and other areas have repeatedly been unsuccessful in electing members to the board, which is dominated by St. Clair County residents. The bill offers the potential for persons from other areas to be elected.

County program needs applicants

Quand-City residents are invited to apply for Madison County's weatherization program.

The program, administered by the county's community development agency, assists low-income families in weatherizing their homes.

There is about $750,000 in state and federal money to weatherize 350 homes by Dec. 1.

Application forms are available at the City Hall in Granite City.

A 16-year-old St. Louis lad was rescued from drowning by a Venice policeman. The patrolman, T. J. Carlin, jumped into the Venice slough to snatch the youngster from certain death. The youth tried to swim across the slough on a dare and had sank half way across, but Carlin heard the youth's screams for help.

Reunion at Sr. Olympics

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

Helen Stevens, winner of two gold medals in the 1936 Olympics, and Alice Purdes, Ph.D., a Venice-Lincoln Technical Center staff member, recently were reunited on the playing field when both competed in the area's Senior Olympics. The event was held at the Jewish Community Center in St. Louis.

More than 40 years have passed since the two athletes played together in the Northside Softball League. Purdes was still a teenager in high school at the time.

Purdes was playing for the Granite City Pals squad and Stevens was on the Steam Electric team of St. Louis.

Any time one of their players hit a home run, the sponsor gave the person an electric steam iron, Purdes recalled.

"I don't know how many (irons) Helen collected, but it was quite a few, I think. She was good," she said.

The league in which the two women played split their games between Wilson Park and St. Louis.

Ten years earlier, Stevens had won two gold medals for the United States in the 100-meter dash and the 400-meter events at the 1936 Olympics held in Berlin.

Helen Stevens was the only Olympic athlete that Adolph Hitler asked to meet personally at the Berlin Games, according to newspaper clippings from that era.

Stevens retired after more than 30 years of service as a librarian at the Technical Library of the Defense Mapping Agency Aerospace Center, St. Louis.

Retirement didn't mean a thing — she promptly moved to coaching at her alma mater, William Woods College in Fulton, Mo.

Now retired from coaching at William Woods, Stevens holds 14 Senior Olympics records in track events and in the football and softball throws for distance.

Stevens, who resides in Florissant, Mo., has to have the blood pressure of a 20-year-old, but says she no longer does any formal training, Purdes said. Not too long ago and quite spontaneously, Stevens casually picked up a javelin and heaved it 10 feet farther than anyone on the competing javelin team, the Purdes said.

Purdes won her Senior Olympic bronze medal for bowling, qualifying her to compete in the National Senior Olympics to be held June 27 through July 2 at Washington University in St. Louis.

It is the first time St. Louis has hosted the national event and more than 26,000 senior athletes are expected to participate, Purdes said.

Track and field events will be held at the Washington University fieldhouse. Golf activities are slated at several area country clubs and the bowling finals will take place at the Four Seasons Bowl.

In the forefront will be Helen Stevens, who advances to the national finals having won gold medals at the preliminary meet in the 100-meter dash and 400-meter relay, the same events she won 51 years ago at the Berlin Games, plus the discus and softball throw events.

Both women are looking forward to taking part in the National Olympics, Purdes said.

CLASSIFIED ADS GET RESULTS

One out of ten women will develop breast cancer.

Perhaps the two most frightening words to a woman are breast cancer. The number one killer of females, breast cancer is a disease caused by an uncontrolled growth of abnormal cells in the breast tissue. But with detection, effective treatment can be started immediately, therefore improving the patient's prognosis. The survival rate among women who find cancer before it is noticeable is 97 percent.

To answer the need for early detection of breast disease, St. Elizabeth Medical Center has established the Breast Diagnostic Program, which provides mammographies at almost one fourth the cost of such procedures being done elsewhere. A convenient diagnostic procedure, mammograms provide patients with high quality, high sensitivity images with minimal radiation exposure.

Following the American Cancer Society's guidelines, this simple, painless exam is currently the best method of detecting breast disease. The ACS recommends all women age 35 to 40 have an initial, routine mammogram; diagnostic exams periodically between age 40 and 50; and yearly exams after age 50.

How many will detect it in time?

Scheduling for the general public will begin Monday, June 1, and will end on Friday, July 31. Normally, such a procedure would cost $95 to $100. Subsidized by the Gussie Glik Cancer Fund, this procedure is now available for a limited time for only $25, which includes the interpretation fee. A physician's referral is required.

Vadalabene praised by college trustees

Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, received a Meritorious Service Award from the Illinois Community College Trustees Association.

He was honored with a special plaque at the ICTA's recognition and awards banquet, held at the Ramada Renaissance Hotel on June 12 as part of the association's 15th annual convention.

The awards are presented annually to elected and appointed officials and others who have contributed to the advancement of the Trustees Association and the state's community college movement.

The ICTA award is not the first accolade Vadalabene has received from Illinois community colleges. His support of the system's funding bills has earned him an honorary law degree from Lewis and Clark Community College and a 1985 "Super Award" from Belleville Area College.

Vadalabene continues to lend an ear to community college concerns as a member of the Senate Higher Education Committee.

SIMAPC gets blame for late tax billing

Mistakes made in reassessing farmland in Madison County are responsible for the delay in getting property tax bills mailed this year, an assessment official said.

County officials placed partial blame on an organization hired to assist with farmland reassessment.

Due to the delay, taxing bodies such as school districts must wait to receive tax money and, in some cases, must resort to short-term borrowing.

The latest estimate on the date tax bills will be mailed is July 27. Last year, they went out May 15.

The county has been reassessing farmland to comply with a state law that says farmland assessments must be based on productivity. Farmland parcels have been measured and classified according to soil types.

Debbie Ming, chief deputy in the supervisor of assessments office, said more than 2,800 mistakes were found in files on 7,817 farmland parcels.

Ming said the organization hired to help with farmland reassessment, "Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission (SIMAPC)," is responsible for some of the mistakes. She declined to estimate a percentage.

Meanwhile, Ming said she is confident the County Board will approve the purchase of soil testing and measuring equipment so the county will not have to contract with SIMAPC in the future.

"We would prefer not to be obligated to them anymore," she said.

Rudy Papa, chairman of the county's Tax Cycle Committee, confirmed his committee is studying the feasibility of the county buying equipment which Ming estimated would cost $60,000.

Supervisor of Assessments Bob Harris was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Ming said mistakes ranged from keypunch errors on acreage, to the failure to account for parcels that were split by sales. She said she began to discover the errors as farmers came into the office to check on their new assessments.

"When you get five out of six people complaining about the acreage, you start to wonder what's wrong," she said. "It has been a mad rush to clean up all the mistakes."

Ming said she has worked weekends for the past three months to correct errors, and SIMAPC also has continued to work on the project.

Thomas Wobbe, SIMAPC director of planning, said many mistakes were made because some figures the organization used in preliminary stages of reassessment were incorrect. Successive calculations were based on those figures, he said.

"Human error does play a part in any situation like that," he said.

The state now has reassessment information, and the county is waiting for the state to issue a tentative multiplier, Ming said.

IP bills shock to some consumers

SPRINGFIELD — Area customers of Illinois Power Co. can expect to get a shock when they open their electric bills for June and find them almost twice as high as their May bill.

A "typical" residential electric bill for June will be $73.41, nearly double the $38.41 for May, Illinois Power officials said May 29. The surge in IP power costs is a result of Illinois Commerce Commission orders putting a "double whammy" on the utility's ratepayers.

First, the ICC increased base rates tied to passing on more of the cost of IP's $4 billion Clinton nuclear plant. Then, it increased the summer-winter differential. Last summer, for example, the kilowatt hour (kwh) charge was 6.74 cents. But the winter rate was lowered last fall from the previous 5.7 cents per kwh to 4.81 cents. IP's summer rate period occurs from June 15 to Oct. 15.

Because of the increases related to Clinton, area residents having to buy electricity from Illinois Power are now paying more than those in the Union Electric Co. and Central Illinois Public Service Co. territories.

Ten years ago, before Illinois Power undertook Clinton, it had the cheapest rates of the three major areas.

Even steeper rate increases are coming in the future for IP customers because about 40 percent of the Clinton investment has been passed on, leaving more to be paid for by consumers. The nuclear plant, now in low-power test operation, has cost about 10 times the original estimate.

Typical IP customers — without air conditioners that dramatically boost power needs as temperatures soar — will be paying nearly twice as much. The May and June examples given by IP represent a power use increase of 18 percent and a cost increase of 90 percent.

May bills still include the lower winter energy charge of 4.81 cents per kwh, compared to the 9.45 cents per kwh summer rate that kicks in the June bills. The flat monthly "facilities charge" passed on to customers in addition to the actual use charges is also increasing from $8 to $10.

The summer rate shock for Union Electric Co. and Central Illinois Public Service Co. customers will be somewhat less jolting, with per kwh charges up about 56 and 33 percent, respectively.

UE's summer residential rates, for June through September, have an energy charge of 9.21 cents per kwh. During the rest of the year, the charge is 6.61 cents per kwh for the first 600 kwh a month and 2.9 cents per kwh above the first 600 per month.

UE is experiencing "modest growth" in electric demand in its Illinois area, said spokesman Tom Dehmer.

The CIPS summer residential energy charge rate increases to 7.83 cents per kwh for the May through August period, compared to 5.89 cents per kwh during the winter months.

O'Neill new chief judge in 3rd circuit

EDWARDSVILLE — Madison County Circuit Judge Paul J. "P.J." O'Neill will become chief judge of the 3rd Judicial Circuit July 1.

O'Neill, 40, of Alton, was elected by the seven other circuit judges. Ballots were unsplit June 10. The 3rd Circuit includes Madison and Bond counties.

O'Neill will succeed Chief Judge Philip J. Rarik of Troy. Rarik's new assignment has not yet been determined. O'Neill became an associate judge in 1978 and worked in the traffic, probate and juvenile divisions. He also was assigned to circuit courts in East Alton and Granite City.

O'Neill was elected a circuit judge in 1982. He worked in the criminal division from 1982 to 1986, serving as chief criminal judge from 1985 to 1986.

O'Neill has been assigned to civil cases since September 1986. He is married to former Alton Alderwoman Jane O'Neill and has two children. He was born in Alton.

Rarik has been chief judge for two years. He said his major accomplishments include initiating a small-claims court where litigants may represent themselves and an evening small-claims court in Alton. Rarik also implemented a new system in "driving under the influence" cases to comply with a comprehensive new state DUI law that took effect Jan. 1, 1986.

Rarik said he is particularly proud of work he has done to devise a system of selecting jurors by driver license rather than through registered voter lists.

The new system, effective this fall, will add about 50,000 names to the jury pool in Madison County, he said.

Psalm - 37:4... "Delight thyself also in the Lord; and He shall give thee the desires of thine heart."

A Christian will find happiness in living for and serving Christ. It is possible that even the hardest work in the service of the Master can be a joyous experience.

This is something we can concentrate on. Something we can help to happen. Don't permit your labors in God's kingdom to become boring.
Think of the good you are doing for others. Share their joys as your own.

And then remember God shall give you the desires of your heart. He SHALL give YOU the DESIRES of YOUR heart.

What greater expression of love could God give than this. He wants us to be happy. He wants us to have His best.

Delight yourself in God.

CENTRAL STATES - A prominent entomologist from a leading midwestern university, who has requested anonymity, has warned citizens of the Central States of an upcoming "invasion" of 14 different varieties of common insects. The entomologist explains that due to the common mildness of last winter and the warmer temperatures of this spring, many insects' eggs were not killed during the winter months and a larger number of insects are expected to hatch during the summer months.

The insects are not meant to harm humans, but they will provide a nuisance and damage property.

Some of the insects are household pests and should be combated against. These include ticks, fleas, gnats, moths, ants, roaches, beetles, mosquitoes, spiders, crickets, and grasshoppers.

"Ortho," a leading pesticide manufacturer, is prepared to handle the insect onslaught with many different kind of sprays and powders designed to rid you of the insect menace. These products, used properly inside and around your home, will help control and kill the insects that infest dark corners or feed on your trees or shrubs.

"Ortho" products are available at your local Central Hardware stores where trained veterans of the insect wars can instruct you in the use of these products. In no time at all you'll be victorious against the insects, and your home and family will be safe from the insect invasion.

DUE TO THE MILD WINTER, THE ENTOMOLOGISTS* ARE PREDICTING A BUG INVASION!

Chase victim involved in earlier, fatal crash

GRANITE CITY — An Alton man killed June 8 at the end of a high-speed police chase was involved in a fatal accident last year.

The incident last year may have caused him to flee police June 8, said a relative of the crash victim.

Kevin W. Minner, 22, died instantly after his motorcycle collided with a Pontoon Beach police car on Illinois 111 near Interstate 270.

Wood River police started the chase after Minner allegedly drove through a stop sign. The offense carries a $30 fine.

The half-brother of a man killed in an accident with Minner last August thinks Minner may have been running from police because he believed an arrest would complicate his position with some unresolved questions on the first accident.

Claude Henrion, 23, is a half-brother of Alan D. Lewis, 22, of Bunker Hill, who died when his pickup truck, occupied by Lewis Minner, rolled over along the Bern Highway in East Alton Aug. 28, 1986.

Henrion said he believed Minner was fleeing from police June 8 "because he knew he was real close to being in trouble on that earlier accident."

Henrion has raised questions about whether Lewis or Minner was driving at the time of the accident.

A police report shows that Minner, who was found by police sitting on the ground about 35 feet from the overturned over pickup, told officers Lewis had been driving the pickup at the time.

Later, Minner, who had a head injury, was interviewed at a hospital. Madison County Chief Deputy Coroner Ralph Baahlmann said Minner appeared confused and indicated that he'd been driving.

Minner's father, Billie Minner of Alton, said June 11 he didn't think his son was at fault in the pickup truck accident.

"There were a lot of things I didn't understand about that accident, but I'm sure Kevin wasn't driving," the elder Minner said.

"Those boys were good friends, and Alan used to come over to the house often, but they had one thing in common: they didn't drive each other's vehicles," he added.

"The only thing that bothered Kevin about that accident was the fact Alan was killed," Minner said.

Meanwhile, Baahlmann said a coroner's jury found that it is "most reasonable" to conclude that Lewis had been driving.

One person who testified — Minner's girlfriend, Susan Eastham — said the men left her Wood River home at 1 a.m. on the night of the accident, which occurred 10 minutes later. She said Lewis had been driving when the pair left.

Baahlmann said this testimony and the time frame helped the jury conclude that Lewis had been driving.

Meanwhile, Illinois State Police are trying to reconstruct the scene of the accident June 8.

State Trooper Jim Hall, accident reconstruction officer, said June 11 that in addition to being called to the scene, he again worked on the accident reconstruction June 10.

"I want to be fair to all sides in this," Hall said.

"I would like to have this reconstruction completed in two months, but it would be more realistic to think in terms of three to four months."

State police laud Diak, others

COLLINSVILLE — Four Illinois State Police officers have been awarded service pins by Capt. Bobby L. Henry Sr., commander of State Police District 11.

Recognized for 30 years of service was Lt. James O. Stever, who was appointed to the Illinois State Police in 1957. Stever served in District 11, Collinsville, from 1957 to 1977.

From 1977 to 1979 he was assigned to the Planning and Research Section in Division Headquarters, Springfield, and served as section director of the Management Information Bureau. In 1980 he transferred back to District 11 and now serves as field operations officer, responsible for the operational objectives and activities of the district.

He has coordinated many special activities, such as the current East St. Louis crime prevention detail and past events including "car craft street machine nation" and a Bone County dog-fight raid.

Stever has been the recipient of numerous department and division awards and was awarded the American Red Cross of Merit in 1982. He is an Army veteran, having been discharged in 1960.

Stever resides in Greenville and is the son of Mrs. Melvin J. Stever, also of Greenville. He has a daughter, Jennifer, a freshman at Western Illinois University in Macomb, and a son, James, a sophomore at Highland High School.

Also recognized for 30 years of service was Master Sgt. James B. Odle, who has served his entire career in District 11.

Odle is the Zone A commander, leading troopers assigned to St. Clair, Clinton and Monroe counties. He is responsible for the supervision and scheduling of those officers.

He is also the district field training supervisor and coordinates initial training for all of the new troopers assigned to District 11.

Odle resides in Lenzburg with his wife, Loretta. They have two sons, James and Jeffrey, both residing in Tilden.

Master Sgt. Rudy J. Diak was recognized for 25 years of service.

He was appointed to the Illinois State Police in 1963 and was assigned to District 1A in Rockford. He transferred to District 11 in 1965.

Diak now serves as shift commander. He is responsible for all of the district operations during his scheduled shift.

He and his wife, Josephine, reside in Granite City. They have three children, Rudolph Jr., Christie and Esther, all residing in Granite City.

Also recognized for 25 years of service was Trooper Thomas Beatty, initially assigned to patrol the Illinois Tollway in Chicago. He transferred to Collinsville in 1967 and was assigned as a road patrol trooper in the Monroe and St. Clair area.

During 1984, Beatty served as a member of the Tactical Auto Theft Unit and participated in a year-long "sting operation" which resulted in the purchase of 91 stolen vehicles and the arrest of 50 defendants.

In 1985, Beatty was appointed court liaison officer for State Police District 11 and presently works in that capacity, responsible for coordinating all court dockets and supplying information to state's attorneys for prosecuting traffic offenses as well as criminal cases for Illinois State Police in the counties of Madison, St. Clair, Clinton, Monroe and Bond.

Beatty resides in Cahokia with his wife, Norma. He has a son, Stephen, a U.S. Navy recruiter in Clarksburg, W. Va., and a daughter, Juliann, residing in Columbia.

Dim future predicted for victims of 'white lung'

Leaders of the White Lung Association painted a dark picture for victims of asbestosis and related lung disease in Madison County recently. They urged a united effort to fight the killer.

Paul Safchuck, national president, and James Fite, executive director, said the disease is a growing problem for industrial workers who need to force companies, unions and attorneys into the battle to clean up the environment and ensure workers' rights.

The two spoke at a first meeting of the Lung Association's newly formed chapter in the Metro East, aimed at recruiting wider membership.

The association counts 20,000 members nationally, with headquarters in Baltimore.

Most victims are shipyard workers, but white collar workers in offices, schools and government buildings filled with asbestos, may be stricken, he said.

"We have one goal no more asbestos victims," said Fite, a former shipyard machinist who suffers from the first stages of the disease.

Fite said the only way to make changes is to educate the workers to existing rights.

"You have legal rights, but they are dependent on what you do to enforce them. You can't get away if you don't know and don't get representation," he said.

When the association began in 1979, Fite said victims had to have an operation and show a piece of the diseased lung to qualify for disability benefits.

"That was the first thing we won," he said.

The association concentrates on educating workers, gaining benefits for asbestos victims (not lawyers) and guaranteeing medical expenses and care for victims as the disease progresses.

"Once it's in you, it will not do anything but grow," said Fite, who demonstrated by plunging a finger inside his fist.

"We want to clean up the environment and have all the young guys tested to prevent any more sickness," he said.

Terry Wooden, shop steward of Steelworkers Local 3643 in Alton, said workers are still dealing with a bad environment.

Of the first 540 workers tested in a screening for lung damage, 491 had an asbestos related illness, he said.

"It's important that we set up this program for everybody," he said.

Ask the dietitian

(Produced by St. Elizabeth Medical Center.)

Dear Dietitian:

Q. I am trying to improve in dietary habits and the troubling meal is breakfast. Why is breakfast important? How can good breakfast habits be formed? S.L.

A. Breakfast is important because eight to 12 hours may have passed since the last meal was eaten. In that period of time, a person's blood sugar level can become low and may even get lower by mid-morning, causing hunger and fatigue.

Studies have shown that without breakfast, people become less efficient in the late morning hours, and students show a poorer attitude toward school work.

Many nutrition and health experts agree that a balanced breakfast should provide about one-fourth of an individual's daily needs for essential nutrients and calories. No matter what foods are selected for breakfast they should, together with lunch, dinner and between-meal snacks, supply the nutrients essential for energy, growth, body repair, and sustained good health.

All too often, a breakfast-skiper becomes very hungry by noon. This may lead to over-eating at the next meal and may make weight control more difficult.

Animal and human studies have shown that by eating only one or two large meals a day, the body tends to accumulate more fat than it would if smaller, more frequent meals having similar caloric value were eaten.

Because it will help curb mid-morning hunger pangs and unwise snacking, a balanced breakfast can be the foundation of a successful weight reduction plan.

For those who are not used to eating early in the morning, the breakfast habit can be acquired in progressive stages. Having a glass of milk, juice, or a piece of fruit when first getting up is a start, but the breakfast should be "completed" by mid-morning.

Then, as the days go by, other breakfast foods can be added to the early-morning menu. Having a complete and balanced breakfast will soon become a routine and a health habit — prior to beginning the day's many activities.

ON THE ROAD TO RECOVERY

Teen-age boy's future rides on the generosity of Ainal Shriners

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

CINCINNATI — Under a concrete grey sky, Jimmy Dougherty lies curled on the vinyl seat while traveling within the Ainal Shrine van. His head rests on his mother's lap as he sleeps, ignoring the sound of rushing wind and constant jostling from the interstate.

Brenda Dohnal, his mother, rests her arm protectively across his shoulder, hiding Jimmy's clear mark. Her hand covers his.

"We'll be in Indianapolis for lunch in about an hour," says Warren Decatur, who's taking his turn as driver. "It's only about a hundred more miles from there to Cincinnati."

After lunch, the van winds across the summer drab trees spread across the hills and valleys of Ohio. Jimmy, 13, acting innocent, turns discreet pages of a Superman comic book for about an hour before Brenda notices he's left off the mask. She warns him to put it on. He tests her, as boys test authority figures, then puts on the mask.

"It's a constant battle to get him to keep it on," Brenda confides. "A lot of times I'll find him down at the ballfield playing without it."

Jimmy perks up in Cincinnati. It's his sixth visit and he recognizes the streets leading to the Shriners Burns Institute.

"They've got lots of comic books," he announces.

Jimmy seems to know the hospital hallways better than his mother, or the drivers, Sid Strotheide and Warren, all of Granite City. In moments, Jimmy is mixing with other children.

At the playroom reception desk, Debi Smith tells what the Shrine has done for Jimmy since March 1986 when 25 percent of his body was burned by flaming paint thinner. It happened as he played with a friend in a vacant house at 2102 Nameoki Road.

In September 1986, following life-saving surgery done on him at St. John's Mercy Medical Center in St. Louis, Jimmy's skin was still so badly damaged around his face and neck that he could not lift his head more than a few inches from his chest.

"He had severe contracture of the neck," Smith explains. "He couldn't tilt his head back... anything like that."

Jimmy's injury received immediate attention. Skin grafted from his back replaced skin lost from his neck in the fire. The "neck release" operation was successful.

The next operation occurred March 25, a year and a day after he suffered his burns. The skin beneath his left arm had constricted, making the arm impossible to lift. Smith says as Jimmy wanders off to have his picture taken by the burn center photographer whose job it is to record the condition of patients.

"I can already see a one hundred percent improvement."
Brenda Dohnal

Jimmy is not at the burn hospital on this day for surgery. Following a quick photo session, he visits with Dr. Edward Law, who sits Jimmy down on an examination table and talks frankly. The left arm is improved, neck movement is good, but the mask and pressure clothing must continue to be worn, though with alterations to meet the physical changes in a growing boy.

Speaking to Jimmy's mother as he inspects the boy's throat and chest,

Edward says, "He's always going to have extensive scarring, as you know."

Immediately she responds, "I can already see a one hundred percent improvement."

Cosmetically, Jimmy's face, throat and chest, and down his back, legs and arms, won't look normal, but the pressure suit and mask reduce the scarring, Edward says. The protective gear, Brenda says, smooths Jimmy's skin.

Before leaving the hospital, a new neck brace attachment to the mask is needed and so is larger pressure clothing. Jimmy doesn't wait for company as he hurries off to the plaster room where John Keenhan, director of orthotics, is waiting with ingredients for a cast. In minutes, the bandage-like material and water needed to create a cast are blended and placed on Jimmy's chest and throat.

"It's cold," Jimmy protests.

"Sit up straight," John says while tapping on the drying plaster. "Anyone in there?"

Jimmy doesn't talk much. The plaster dries quickly. John holds the cast and tells Jimmy to lean back. It comes off easily.

"I can't get this stuff out of my hair," Jimmy says of some plaster splatterings.

"I mess it up, you clean it up," John responds.

An attendant jokes, "Go outside and we'll hose you down."

In the measuring room, Brenda wipes away the plaster drippings that remain on Jimmy's back and chest as he's precisely fitted, limb by limb, for new pressure clothing that resembles thick, nylon hosiery. Jimmy's getting impatient. He fidgets. It's nearly time to leave and Jimmy's in a hurry to get to more important business.

"I want to go to the motel so I can go swimming," he says.

At the motel in Indianapolis that evening, his legs kicking frog-like in the cold, blue water, Jimmy seems unconcerned about the thousands of dollars donated by Shriners for his treatment, or the medical personnel who've given movement to his neck and arm, or the men like Warren and Sid who've donated their time to make the 700-mile round trip to Cincinnati.

It's not that he doesn't care. He does. But not so much as he may one day, years from now, when perhaps he'll reflect on the experience.

It's just that today Jimmy wants to enjoy the luxury of being 13 years old, and he does.

GETTING PLASTERED: Jimmy Dougherty patiently waits as John Keenhan first inspects the body area on which a mold for a new neck brace will be applied. Keenhan then creates the plaster mold. (Staff photos by J.C. Ventimiglia)

Inner beauty

By Jack C. Ventimiglia

CINCINNATI — Some people stare.

They speak without thinking. A woman at a discount store in Granite City stopped, fixed her eyes on the 13-year-old boy and exclaimed, "Oh, God."

On March 24, 1986, Jimmy Dougherty started the day like any curious boy. He and a friend walked next door to the vacant house and went to the basement. Old paint thinner. A match. Jimmy.

An emergency medical crew arrived within minutes. They prepared the boy for the ambulance as his mother, Brenda Dohnal, watched helplessly from the back door of her home.

Burns covered 25 percent of his body. Most severe was damage to his throat and upper chest area. Some people in Granite City would later start a rumor that he was dead, but even as they said it he struggled for his life at St. John's Mercy Medical Center in St. Louis. Brenda waited at his side, whispering encouragement.

"I lived like that for five days," Brenda said Saturday while returning by van from the Shriners Burns Institute in Cincinnati. "They couldn't even tell me if Jimmy was blind because his eyes were swollen shut. I kept telling him, 'Don't give up. Keep going.'"

Jimmy kept going. His condition improved. But the scars remained. Brenda tried to wish them away.

"I would turn off anybody who told me his skin would not come back. They were trying to get me to accept reality, but I was still in a dream world. I just thought he'd go to the hospital, he'd be OK and then come home."

Others were more realistic. On the day Jimmy was injured, calls went out to Granite City members of the Ainal Shrine in East St. Louis. Speaking for the organization, Warren Decatur offered the help of the Shrine burn centers to Brenda and Jimmy.

She refused. Brenda feared moving Jimmy to the burns institute could kill him.

Jimmy's condition later stabilized at St. John's, but he needed an operation on his throat because the burned skin had tightened and pulled his chin down toward his chest. When money became a point of discussion between the hospital and the Illinois Department of Public Aid, she asked the Shriners to help.

"They're super people. When the Shriners took over, it was like pounds were lifted off my shoulders."

Though the Shrine is helping Jimmy, Brenda still faces difficult challenges. She alone takes care of her three boys, ages 12, 13 and 15, and Jimmy requires special attention. She's proud of what she's accomplished to keep the family together while continuing her studies.

"I have to be everything — the mother, the father, a full-time student in secretarial school so I can properly support my three sons so I can get off the welfare roll."

Jimmy is like many teenage boys. Sometimes quiet and moody, he maintains his sense of humor, Brenda said, and still fights with his brothers. Though it takes her an hour to get him into the pressure clothing designed to lessen scarring, it makes him hot and he takes it off when she isn't looking.

"That's aggravating," she said.

The special attention Jimmy receives makes his brothers feel left out. Jimmy requires special attention. She's proud of what she's accomplished to keep the family together while continuing her studies.

"I have to be everything — the mother, the father, a full-time student in secretarial school so I can properly support my three sons so I can get off the welfare roll."

High School where there's air conditioning. Brenda said he was accepted. In another case, when an older boy off-handedly referred to Jimmy as "burn face," Brenda asked the older boy to be compassionate and since then he doesn't talk that way to Jimmy.

In other cases, people are cruel.

"Jimmy tries to be a strong person, but sometimes I see tears in his eyes."

Before the accident, problems faced by burn victims never intruded on Brenda's life. Now she understands and shares experiences with other parents who belong to a support group at St. John's. She realizes why some people display ignorance in the presence of burn victims.

"They haven't seen the inner beauty. What's inside is so beautiful."

3 students win in national contest

GRANITE CITY — For the fifth year in a row, students from Coolidge Junior High School have won national honors in the Eastman-Kodak/Scholastic Photography Contest, held annually in New York.

Through the photography award program, Eastman-Kodak and Scholastic Inc. have for six years aimed to encourage achievement in creative work among junior high and high school students, to foster appreciation of the arts and to bring wider public attention to the outstanding work of schools and teachers.

Winning entries were submitted by Dixie Lynn Price, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Price; Nathan McClain, son of Mr. and Mrs. David McClain; and Rob Terrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Terrell.

All winning entries advanced to New York by taking honors in preliminary judging held at Coolidge under the supervision of Edward M. Schroeder, teacher of the academically gifted and talented.

Schroeder said all eighth grade gifted students study photography for two-month period at the beginning of each school year. During this time, students study the history of photography, make and develop their own photographs, make working pinhole cameras from cereal boxes and make photo essays using their own cameras, learning photographic procedures and techniques.

It is from the photo essays that pictures are selected to be sent to New York for national judging, Schroeder said.

Winning the national level is an achievement, he said, since many thousands of entries representing all 50 states are submitted.

This year, Granite City is one of only a few cities in the nation to have multiple winners, he said.

McClain won two honor awards, while Terrell was awarded three from a total of approximately 100 that were given to seventh, eighth and ninth graders throughout the country.

Price won a special merit award, one of four given nationally. Price was also named co-valedictorian of her class at Coolidge.

Each prize consists of a gold medalion of excellence certificate, a monetary award and the distinction of having the winning photographs displayed throughout the country at selected sites, Schroeder said.

On the local level, the three students were honored in June by the District 9 Board of Education, being presented special plaques of commendation and a framed print of each winning entry.

Framed copies of the students' work will be permanently displayed at the board office, 20th and Adams streets, and at Coolidge, 3231 Nameoki Road.

Police car purchase draws trustee's ire during his 16 years as a trustee. Trustee Don Rea said $20,000 was placed in the budget to purchase new police cars and the three used vehicles will replace the new auto.

"You're probably talking about $16,000 or $17,000 for a new one," he said.

"We just hired an officer and we'll probably have to hire another one after January," Rea said.

Madison refused to be mollified, saying to Able, "Your object is to put every officer in his own car. You said it at that meeting."

Able agreed, "Yes, I believe in it. And you're better off if you don't run a car to death."

"We are spending ourselves bankrupt," Madison replied. "It's spend, spend, spend, all the time."

There were no taxes levied last year in the village, Trustee Lewis Whitsell said.

"Just remember what I said when they (cars) start breaking down," Madison said. "I'm going to vote 'no.'"

Trustee Bob Vincent suggested Madison accompany those going to pick up the vehicles in order to inspect the cars before delivery.

"I've had experience with used police cars and I don't want no more," Madison replied. Able Vincent said he comprised the board's police committee.

The department has an eight-man force, including the police chief, plus five civilian dispatchers.

DUI

Partney's DUI trial continues in court

he said he noticed Partney's alleged intoxication moments later in the hallway when Sgt. Jim Reader told him to assist Lyerla. He also reiterated his testimony that Partney had become loud and verbally abusive toward Lyerla and threatened Lyerla's job when Partney was being processed.

Jenkins also said he smelled alcohol on Partney's breath and that Partney appeared intoxicated and was abusive.

Reader, who was officer in charge during the shift, testified that Partney was abusive and loud, but did not seem intoxicated. Reader was at the front desk and had briefly talked to Partney at a distance. Reader said.

Scroggins also questioned how many officers were at the station when Partney was brought in and whether any officers were patrolling the city at the time.

Lyerla testified that three patrol cars, including the one he used to arrest Partney, were assigned to the city that night. Dowdy testified that he and Jenkins drove one car to the station a few minutes before Partney was brought in.

"Who was patrolling the city?" Scroggins asked Dowdy. Dowdy said he did not know if patrolman George Diak, with the third car, was at the station when Partney was brought in, though he said he saw Diak at the station earlier.

When cross-examined by Scroggins, Dowdy and Jenkins denied that they met with Lyerla at 27th Street and Madison Avenue to discuss the possible DUI arrest of Partney a few minutes before Partney was arrested.

Scroggins also focused on the actions of off-duty officers and Lyerla prior to the arrest.

Patrolman Richard Schardan, Kenneth Crawford and Milton, all off duty and at Charlie's at the same time as Partney, said Partney appeared intoxicated while at Charlie's and Patrolman Jeff Parker at first said he thought Partney was probably intoxicated.

But under Scroggins questioning, Parker said he did not smell alcohol on Partney's breath.

"That's hard to say because I had a couple of beers," Parker said.

Officer Mike Murgie, off duty and at Charlie's that night, said Partney did not seem intoxicated.

Scroggins questioned the off-duty officers on how much they had been drinking that night.

Testimony indicated that four officers, Schardan, Milton, Parker and Ron Landman, had visited a number of bars before going to Charlie's, but some of the testimony seemed to conflict.

Parker gave this sequence of events: The four met at Ingleside's Tavern about 5 p.m. They drank a number of pitchers of beer and stayed until about 8:30.

Then they went to Church's and the Church's Fried Chicken and left for officer Mike Gage's house. About 9:30, the four were at the house in Madison where they drank bottles of beer until about 1:30 a.m. The four then went to Charlie's, where they saw Partney, and stayed until about 4 a.m.

Milton did not mention going to Gage's house in his earlier testimony on where the officers had been before going to Charlie's. On cross-examination, Milton said he could not remember if he had gone to the house. In his earlier testimony, Milton said the four went to Church's and then to Charlie's. Scroggins questioned Milton about the time he went to Church's before or after the restaurant's 11 p.m. closing time. Milton said he could not remember exactly when they went to Church's.

In questioning Milton and Lyerla, Scroggins tried to establish that Lyerla and Milton were involved in a set up.

Milton agreed to his and Partney's encounter at Charlie's that night, in which the two had to be separated because they almost fought. Milton said he was angry at Partney and went outside to retrieve a police walkie talkie from an unmarked police car, which is driven by Schardan.

Milton said he called Lyerla and met Lyerla at Charlie's Restaurant parking lot about 2:30 a.m.

Milton said he told Lyerla that he and Partney were on the verge of fighting, that Partney was "primed" and that Lyerla might be called if the two got into a fight.

Milton denied asking Lyerla to arrest Partney for DUI. Lyerla said Milton did not ask that Partney be arrested. Lyerla also denied that he understood the word "primed" meaning that Partney was primed for a DUI.

He said he thought Milton meant that Partney was primed for a fight.

Lyerla had testified on Tuesday that Milton was holding a drink while talking to him in the parking lot, which prompted Scroggins to ask why he did not ask Milton about public drinking.

"I would say he had been drinking. He had a drink in his hand," said Lyerla.

"Wouldn't that be an offense?" Scroggins asked.

Lyerla said it would be if there was alcohol in the drink. Scroggins questioned Lyerla about the time of Partney's arrest. He asked Lyerla about the 4:06 a.m. radio log of Partney being brought into the station.

Lyerla said he inspected about 10 buses at Bellemore Shopping Center, which he followed and stopped Partney, gave him three field sobriety tests and took Partney to the station.

Scroggins questioned Lyerla on how he could take all those actions between 4 a.m., approximately 11:30 p.m. when he talked with Jenkins and Dowdy, and 4:06 a.m.

Lyerla responded that the radio log was inaccurate.

"That does not accurately account for my time," Lyerla said.

He estimated the arrest took approximately 15 minutes.

Also testifying were Vicki Bain, a waitress at Charlie's, and Roger Carper, a waiter at Charlie's.

As she did at the previous hearing, Bain testified that she heard Partney say he was "going to get" Partney that night. She said she warned Partney that she thought he was going to be set up.

"I said don't get in your car, they're waiting for you," Bain said she offered to call cab for Partney, but he declined.

Under Cain's cross-examination, Bain said she had no knowledge of whether Granite City officers were waiting nearby for Partney.

Carper testified that Milton approached Partney numerous times while at Charlie's. He also said Partney seemed to have had too much to drink.

Testimony from Partney is expected to begin before the jury deliberates on a verdict.

RETURN TO LIFE'S MAINSTREAM

The loss of a spouse is often devastating. It is a shock that many people, particularly older people, feel they can never recover from. However, the great majority of people do recover and do reach a point where they are ready to return to the mainstream of life. The problem then becomes, how do I accomplish this? What can I do?

The first thing that you need to do is to sit down and decide what you want, and which direction you would like to go.

Once you have made these decisions, you have taken your first step toward regaining your life. That is, what returning to the mainstream is, a series of small steps that eventually lead you out of the tunnel of gloom that has surrounded your life. You can now begin to see light at the end of that tunnel.

Begin to make your own decisions, both large and small. Of course you are not always going to make the right decision, but every decision, large or small is a mental exercise, a challenge. It is important that you keep making decisions. This doesn't mean that you should seek advice from friends or relatives. You should seek advice. But analyze every bit of advice that you get, not from their perspective and then make your decision.

As you move back into life, let the pendulum swing between activity and rest and contemplation. This is important, because you cannot grow just by looking within yourself, nor can you grow by accepting every idea from others. You must strike a happy medium. Try to expand your circle of friends, rather than rely on any one friend too much. The death of your spouse has shown that even the most intimate ties can be broken. Just as your spouse could not be your anchor in life, neither can your friends serve as your anchor. You must be your own anchor. While the need to relate to others is important, expect too much from them is courting heartache. As you move back into life's mainstream be prepared for setbacks. You will be haunted by memories of your spouse and your heart will tighten as nostalgia takes you briefly into the past. Don't let this frighten you. It is normal.

To help yourself regain your life, take time and courage. Your life will never be the same as it was. Your past life is history. Yesterday is gone, today is here, and tomorrow is in the future. Remember yesterday, but concentrate on today. Each day is one small step to the future.

Do not be hesitant to join a support group, like our "Walk On" not only will you find others who are like you, but you will be helping each member of the group.

Long-term bond debt shows sharp increase

SPRINGFIELD — State government sold a record $530 million in bonds in fiscal 1986, increasing Illinois' bonded indebtedness to more than twice what it was a decade ago, Comptroller Roland W. Burris recently reported.

Burris noted the state's long-term general and special obligation bonded indebtedness (principal plus interest) reached about $7 billion in 1986. That figure is 2.4 times the fiscal 1977 level of $2.87 billion.

The per capita debt from the sale of bonds now stands at $605, up from $252 per person a decade ago.

There are three different bond issues authorized by state law:

General obligation bonds are those which are secured by the full faith and credit of the state and are repaid from tax revenues. They are authorized for specific purposes and in amounts provided by a three-fifths vote of the General Assembly or by the voters in a general election.

Special obligation bonds are those issued for the Build Illinois program and the Metropolitan Civic Center Support Program. They are similar to general obligation bonds in that they are primarily retired through payments from the state's sales tax.

Revenue bonds are not, in theory, secured by the full faith and credit of the state. Until recently, most revenue bonds pledged the income generated by the facility financed to retire the bond debt.

Burris said the fiscal 1986 bonds sale of $530 million was 54 percent more than the previous peak year of fiscal 1979, when $540 million in bonds were sold.

The principal and interest due on general obligation bond issues are paid out of the appropriate debt service funds. Between fiscal 1977 and 1986, annual debt service expenditures have increased nearly five times — from $147 million to $674 million, Burris said.

Burris said the portion of General Funds spending on debt service has increased from 1.9 percent in 1977 to 2.7 percent in 1986.

The state introduced Build Illinois bonds to the market in 1986. The operating cost of Build Illinois bonds is considerably higher than general obligation bond issues, he said.

The Bureau of the Budget's expense for the bond issues in fiscal 1986 was $875 per $1 million of bonds while Build Illinois bonds cost $3,728 per million.

County, state attract new defense industry

Gov. James R. Thompson announced June 15 that American Electronic Laboratories Inc. (AEL) will open a new engineering and service facility in the Alton-Belleville area at the St. Louis Regional Airport, creating at least 50 jobs in the next two years.

"The Southwestern Illinois region has many highly skilled people ready to go to work," said Thompson. "I am pleased with AEL's decision because it will provide these people with an excellent opportunity to put their expertise to work."

AEL designs, develops and manufactures defense electronic systems and products. The company will open Aero Division operations this fall in a new 32,500 square-foot facility to be constructed at the airport.

The company will invest more than $6.3 million in the project over a four-year period and anticipates employment reaching 350 by 1991.

AEL is headquartered in Lansdale, Pa., and is a subsidiary of AEL Industries Inc.

The company will receive a $250,000 Build Illinois Small Business Development Program loan through the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs for purchase of machinery and equipment and $25,000 in Industrial Training Program (ITP) funds to train the 50 employees.

In addition, the Illinois Department of Transportation has committed $7.8 million over a six-year period to make improvements to St. Louis Regional Airport.

"Expanding, widening and extending runways will allow existing businesses to take greater advantage of available transportation resources and make Southwestern Illinois even more attractive to other industrial prospects," the governor said.

In addition to state funds, Madison County will loan AEL $150,000 to help purchase machinery and equipment, and the St. Louis Regional Airport Authority will finance construction of a hangar facility for the company.

Leiner participates in legislative conference. SPRINGFIELD — Flo Leiner, secretary-treasurer of the Granite City Board of Realtors, participated June 9 in a day-long legislative conference.

Guest speakers were Illinois Senate President Phil Rock and Gov. Jim Thompson.

Regional Roundup

By Bill Winter

We'll talk about computers today, but first this news flash: The East Alton-Wood River high school board has accepted an employee insurance plan presented by the president of the board, it was confirmed June 11 by the president, who said he thinks there is no conflict of interest. It brings to mind an expose that I wrote in my youth when four of the seven Madison school board members were doing business with their own district. The inappropriate transactions were halted, with the help of the late George T. Wilkins Sr., at that time the Madison superintendent. He later became Madison County superintendent of schools and then Illinois state superintendent of public instruction, an elective office in those days.

His son, G.T. "Tom" Wilkins Jr., a medical doctor who practices here and elsewhere, is chairman of the Madison County AIDS Task Force, which held its first meeting June 12. Similar task forces have been formed throughout the state, according to the Illinois Department of Public Health (IDPH).

Concerns of the group include educating the public generally about the fatal disease — explaining the various justified and unjustified fears — and developing a central point where individuals can obtain answers to specific questions. How to meet the expense of AIDS treatment, including patients no longer well enough to work and earn, is one of the unresolved issues as the immune deficiency syndrome continues to make big statistical inroads. The task force is cooperating with the Madison County AIDS Prevention Program and the IDPH's regional office in Glen Carbon.

The words "justified and unjustified," used in the previous item, also have meanings in the computer realm. We at the Press-Record/Journal are trying to become proficient in using sophisticated computers that perform a number of tasks. A justified news story, technically, is one whose lines are of uniform width and whose columns are of equal depth. I guess a story also has to be worthy of the space it is to be truly "justified," but computer language is not exactly the queen's English.

As I sit at my keyboard, I have access to such keys as Hide, Send, Spike, Menu, Proof, File, Create, Edit, Directory, Search, Messages, Font, Modes, Delete, Undo, Move, Change Case, Save/Recall, Rubout, Double, Triple, Define, Switch and even Help.

Many Quad City Area residents are delving deeply into the fascinating field of computers, through their work and through hobby and serious purposes in their homes.

This fact has led to creation of the Gateway Computer Club, which meets each third Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Caseyville Township Center on Bunkum Road.

Composed of Metro East residents and employees, the club is planning a computer fair Aug. 29.

As expected, Adlai Stevenson has endorsed Sen. Paul Simon for president. Somewhat unexpectedly, Sen. Alan Dixon also has endorsed Simon — after initially leaning toward a still undecided candidate, Sen. Sam Nunn.

Illinois House Minority Leader Jim McPike of Alton said 31 layoffs slated for July 31 at the Alton mental health hospital are phony — an unnecessary attempt to "manufacture a crisis" and pressure legislators to vote for tax increases sought by the governor.

A spokesman for the governor replied June 11 that the issue isn't phony — that lack of a tax increase will cause real crises affecting state services.

Trying to land a knockout punch after that jab, Gov.-Jim Thompson revised his estimate of the state budget gap stemming from a new Illinois Supreme Court ruling on the tax treatment of corporate operating losses. The gap won't be $50 million; it is now projected to be $100 million.

To end on a slightly lighter note, the big mansion at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale is going to be occupied by SIU Chancellor Lawrence Pettit, whose responsibilities also include SIU at Edwardsville, the medical school at Springfield and the dental school at Alton.

Its cost, size and elegance hurried the retirement of the late Delyte Morris, longtime SIU leader who played the biggest role among those instrumental in creating the beautiful SIUE.

Time is a healer, and the mansion evidently no longer is seen as a "hot potato." It definitely was controversial when I visited it.

We don't have a recent quote from Wilkins, one of the university's trustees, but we do have one from SIU Board Chairman Harris Rowe during a June 11 meeting.

"It was built as a house, it looks like a house and it quacks like a house. So, I guess it is a house." (Every portion of this every-Thursdays column is factual, including the above comment.)

Chicago philanthropist W. Clement Stone picked up the tab

a couple of decades ago to avoid further criticism of Morris, and it is now called Stone House. A 1987 study said its best use would be as the chancellor's official residence, and Pettit is moving in.

Since the home also will be utilized for SIU social events and small conferences, $12,000 will be budgeted for yearly operating costs.

What kind of father lets his kid work for nickels & dimes?

A father who realizes that a newspaper carrier is an important youngster with much more than spending money.

It can teach the sweet satisfaction of self-reliance and making your own way. It can teach a lot about people, about getting along with fellow workers, about honesty, and about what you owe customers and what they owe you.

It can teach pride, responsibility and hanging in there doing what has to be done and doing it right. If you'd like this for your youngster, suggest that he or she call our circulation department and ask about a newspaper route.

Oh, just about the money. It's not the nickels and dimes, and doesn't very quickly add up to real dollars.

Fewer parents-too-soon

The state's Parents Too Soon program is being given credit for a decrease in the number of teen-age girls giving birth. Participating agencies include the Family Service and Visiting Nurse Association in Madison County.

Continuing a six-year decline, births to women under 20 in 1986 numbered 22,080, compared to 22,630 in 1985. Illinois births last year totaled 176,567, or 4,090 fewer than in 1985.

In Madison County, of 3,509 live births, there were 487 teen births (473 in the 15-19 age group and 14 to mothers aged 14 or younger). The previous year, of 3,600 births, there were 462 (447 in the 15-19 group and 15 under age 15).

Teen births also increased in Macoupin County but decreased in St. Clair, Monroe, Greene, Calhoun, Jersey and Bond counties.

Parents Too Soon was formed because Illinois was found to rank third among the 50 states in prevalence of teen births, which often are accompanied by high levels of infant mortality, neglect, abuse and poverty.

A spin-off group, Parents Plus, works with young parents to encourage responsible care and continued schooling and career preparation.

Courts too inconsistent

Those who oppose capital punishment are occurring frequently these days after a long halt. Those who favor the death penalty are displeased that hundreds of killers are being kept on death row during appeals that consume many years.

Nobody is happy about the U.S. Supreme Court's inconsistency, which keeps everyone trying to guess what constitutes fully legal investigative and prosecutorial procedures.

Just three days ago, the high court zig-zagged once again. The mother of a 16-year-old girl brutally murdered in nearby Macoupin County, Ill., said she is sickened by a ruling that discourages use of testimony by victims' families at death sentence hearings.

Catherine Drobney fears this could affect the death sentence against Robert Turner, one of three men convicted in the 1985 slaying of her daughter, Bridget.

The justices now say it might inflame jurors if they heard about the emotional impact of killings on family members. Whatever the merits of that assertion, it is "cruel and unusual punishment" for the court to be so inconsistent.

'BAC bill' needs support

The "BAC bill" should be supported by all voters in the Belleville Area College District.

The bill would let district voters decide if they want at-large elections or elections from subdistricts. Voters in each subdistrict would elect a board representative.

We favor subdistrict elections because the at-large system is unfairly weighted toward one county.

St. Clair County, having the most voters, consistently elects all board members, as occurred in the last election. In the 20 years since BAC became a community college, three board members have come from outside St. Clair County.

Sen. Ken Hall, D-East St. Louis, represents Belleville but backs the BAC bill. So does Frank Watson, R-Greenview, who represents O'Fallon and Lebanon in St. Clair County. They want all district voters to have an equal chance at electing representatives.

Concerning tax money, most BAC tax revenue comes from St. Clair County, which pays 48 percent. Madison County pays 32.5 percent, and about 18 percent is the combined total paid by Randolph and Monroe counties.

St. Clair County pays less than 50 percent of the bill but elects all of the board's members. As a result, the BAC board concentrates on Belleville Campus. Red Bud and Granite City campuses are stepchildren.

In December, because "St. Clair County's BAC Board" was indecisive about paying for heating and cooling units at Granite City Campus, the board missed a chance to take advantage of a tax program. By the time the board decided to provide the units, the tax program wasn't available and bonds had to be issued. It needlessly cost taxpayers $90,000 in interest and administrative costs because some board members couldn't decide if Granite City students should be warm in the winter and cool in the summer.

Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, is the bill's author and he sponsored it in the House. Sen. Sam Vadalabene took sponsorship in the Senate, where the bill passed Tuesday on second reading. Vadalabene expects it to be approved next week by the Senate.

Ultimately, the bill's future will be decided by Gov. James Thompson. He should be made aware of the inequality created by the at-large election system in the BAC district and he should give voters an alternative by signing it.

The way to make the governor aware is to tell him. Voters should let the governor know there are other voices to be heard, other persons who desire to share the responsibilities involved in representing the eight-county, Belleville Area College District.

The governor has less reason to be concerned about what occurs in this college district, or about whether tax money is fairly disbursed by the district's board members, if residents don't show concern.

To offer your opinion, address letters to: Gov. James Thompson, 207 State House, Springfield, Ill., 62706.

Reader feels sorry for Partney; thinks police acted incorrectly

To the editor:

After reading the Press-Record, Thursday, June 11 edition, I couldn't help but feel sorry for David Partney concerning his involvement with the police department.

Enough is enough! I would think the police would have more important things to do than to target particular persons for arrest on questionable grounds. Granite City Police Department's antics are taking on the appearance of the Keystone Cops or the Three Stooges.

It would also seem that the chief of police and the mayor, Von Dee Cruse, would have better judgment than to continue what seems to be an attack on David Partney.

Fortunately, I do not live in Granite City, but I do work there. Maybe if Granite City had better leadership, it could be the city that it should be.

Thank you for reading this letter. I have not had the occasion to meet Mr. Partney or his family, but they also should take heed.

I have to drive through Granite daily, so I don't want you to use my name. Thank you.

CONCERNED DRIVER

Paul Harvey News

Belted tires not hindering lightning bolts

Mike Carter, a husky 6-footer, drives a dump truck for the J. Smith Coal Co. in Providence, Ky.

For four years, Mike has worked for Smith Coal. He drives a rear dump truck.

His truck is big. The tires thing stand seven feet tall. Each tire costs $4,000 and weighs half a ton.

On a Saturday, Mike was driving his truck up the ramp inside the dig — going 10 miles an hour, maybe 15.

Out of the rainy sky a bolt of lightning hit the truck. A charge of energy so enormous that it lifted that 85-ton truck off the ground!

Three of those gigantic thousand-pound tires exploded. It sounded like dynamite going off. One of the tires on the driver's side was torn loose, hurled 30 feet where it landed inside out!

Mike reached for the CB and began shouting. "I've been hit by lightning."

Then before anybody could respond lightning struck again.

This time it blew the windshields out — front and back. It bulged out both steel doors.

The engine smoking, Mike cut the ignition, pulled on the park brake, climbed down and walked away from it. Unhurt. He got scared later.

I've talked with Mike Carter a couple of times since that fateful day. He suffers no ill effects.

He says his faith in God is stronger than it was; he's not sure why he was spared. But he says he will be eternally grateful.

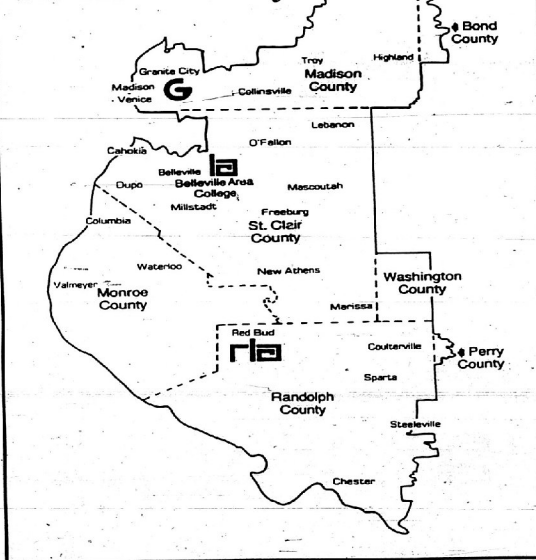

And we have all learned from his experience.

We have learned that lightning does not always seek the "highest point" in an area. In this instance there were shops and office buildings many feet higher than Mike and his truck. There were other vehicles on the up-slope ahead of him; a crusher and power towers "all higher."

And we have learned that since we began belting our tires with steel — since we began using steel-belted tires — they cannot give us the lightning protection which rubber used to afford.

Not anymore.

Are DUI laws strict enough?

Do you think the current laws dealing with driving under the influence of alcohol, which call for a three-month suspension of one's driver's license for failing a breathalyzer test and a six-month suspension for refusing to take the test, are strict enough? What about the proposed law which calls for a five-year suspension for a second DUI and a 10-year suspension, imprisonment from one to three years and a $10,000 fine for a third DUI?

Joyce Hall, Glen Carbon

"I think there are a lot of people who shouldn't be driving and I think the proposed laws are fine. But I think a lot of them (already convicted two or three times) will drive anyway, even if they have a suspended license. The bottom line is they need help."

Lonzo Patterson, Granite City

"There is no reason to refuse to take the test if you haven't been drinking. I think they ought to get the ones selling it (alcohol), I think there should be strong laws against those who serve it in excess to customers. I think a suspension is fine, but I can't see putting someone in prison for it."

Nazar Manoooglan, Granite City

"I think it's within line. It keeps the heavy drinkers off the street, which saves lives. Yes, I do (agree with the proposed laws). If they are chronic drinkers, keep them off the streets."

Church to hear missionary

First Church of the Nazarene, 4701 Illinois 111, will hear the Rev. David Runyan at 6 p.m. Sunday, June 21, according to the Rev. William Roddy, host pastor.

In February 1987, Rev. and Mrs. David Runyan were appointed as Nazarene missionaries to the Azores. Following a year of language study in Portugal they will begin their evangelistic assignment in the Azores.

Runyan earned a bachelor degree in religion at Mid-America Nazarene College and did graduate study at Nazarene Theological Seminary. Mrs. Laura Runyan attended Olivet Nazarene University.

Before their appointment as missionaries the Runyans served the Church of the Nazarene as youth workers, in the area of pastoral ministries, and as commissioned evangelists.

They have two children, Bethany and Jenna. The family will leave for Portugal in September.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED

A Chapter 13 Bankruptcy, which is also known as a Wage Earner Plan, permits a person to repay all or part of his debts under the protection of the Bankruptcy Court. Why would a person file for Chapter 13 plan rather than discharge his debts by filing a Chapter 7 "straight" bankruptcy?

In the first place, the debtor may have a sincere desire to repay his debts in full or in part. Many individuals have good intentions but simply do not have the ability to meet the current demands of the creditors. In such cases, a debtor may have sufficient income to repay his bills over an extended period of time if he can be afforded temporary relief from collection efforts by creditors.

Another case where a person may choose a Chapter 13 plan rather than a straight bankruptcy is where the individual is several months behind on his mortgage payments. If the person in this situation filed a Chapter 7, he would have to immediately catch up on all the delinquent house payments if he wanted to keep the house. A Wage Earner Plan, however, will allow him to pay the back mortgage payments over a three year period.

Another instance where the debtor may choose a Chapter 13 is when he owes money to the IRS, is behind on his child support or alimony or owes on a student loan. Usually these debts are not dischargeable in a Chapter 7 straight bankruptcy. The advantage to filing a Chapter 13 "plan" in these instances is that it will force the creditor to take payments over a period of time and at the same time give the debtor relief from debt collection efforts that often amount to harassment.

Finally, a person may prefer filing a Chapter 13 "plan" in cases where they own too much property to file a straight bankruptcy. As an example, a husband and wife can only protect $15,000 of equity in their residence when they file a Chapter 7 bankruptcy. In a case where a house is worth $80,000 and they owe $40,000, they have too much equity to file a straight bankruptcy. If they were to file a Chapter 13 plan, however, they would not face the possibility of losing their home as would be the case with a Chapter 7.

Soap opera star's project is child's play

By Bill Hester
Journal correspondent

Several cast members of the CBS-TV soap opera "As the World Turns" got a chance to relive a part of their childhoods in a project that is being test-marketed in the St. Louis area. Four of the program's actors, Gregg Marx, Hilary Bailey-Smith, Eileen Fulton and Peter Boynton, made an appearance recently at the St. Louis Centre to help promote the idea of a book and audio cassette version of popular children's stories. The read-along book and cassette of the two stories are available to anyone with two proofs of purchase from Luvs Diapers and one dollar for postage and handling. Forms are available in area grocery stores.

"The original idea was Marx's, who is the narrator on the cassette. 'I had done a similar kind of thing with some Hans Christian Andersen fairy tales,' Marx said. 'That project never really went anywhere per se. If just sat on a shelf.' I read a lot as a kid and I wanted to get kids in this video and television age to start reading. The idea was so good in combining actors' talents with stories and getting kids to read good literature that I wanted to pursue it further."

Marx had the idea of the book on tape but he had no marketing expertise, it didn't take him long to settle that problem.

"As the World Turns" is a Proctor and Gamble show," Marx said. "I had this brain-storm of getting in touch with them because I felt they could market something like this."

Marx got together with Susan Carnes, who was a liaison between the show and Proctor and Gamble. The two hashed out the idea over dinner in New York.

"From her tone I was thinking it might happen about five years down the road," Marx said. "But these talks happened less than two years ago. I'm firmly convinced that the project in and of itself is so good that it has taken everybody by surprise, including all of us who worked so intimately with it."

Marx enlisted help from Time-Life Books for book, Marx cast and produced the project.

Sports Comment

By Dave Whaley

1987 prep sports year highlighted by two big events

Another high school sports season has come and gone, and this one was full of enough thrills to make up about three seasons.

For Tri-Cities sports fans, this one will stay in the memory books for a while. The multitude of athletes at Granite City, Madison and Venice high schools put forth tremendous effort in all sports. There were some incredibly high moments and some fairly low ones.

But when the dust has cleared, two dates will stand out on the Tri-Cities sports calendar for 1986-87: Oct. 4 and March 14.

On that overcast October Saturday afternoon, a determined group of young football players from Granite City got themselves noticed by high school sports fans from across the nation. The 17-14 win over the theretofore unbeatable East St. Louis Flyers will never be forgotten by the several thousand people on hand to witness it.

The Flyers hadn't lost a football game in almost four years, but their 44-game winning streak came to a screeching halt that day. It would be easy to say now it was a fluke, that the Warriors were lucky to win. Everyone knows East Side had tons more talent.

But the fact will always remain that the Warriors were the better team for 2½ hours last Oct. 4. Sure, the Flyers came back and scored a 20-0 victory on the same field five weeks later in the playoffs. But Ron Yates, the players and fans will always have Jamie Hogan's spectacular touchdown catch, Len Whiteside's thrilling 15-yard touchdown on a fourth-down draw play, Jimmy Parker's field goal, Tim Hogan's two interceptions and the never-say-die spirit of the rest of the team.

Although the season ended short of the ultimate goal, there were more thrills ahead. Granite City got its first Southwestern Conference football title since 1946 with a Halloween night win at Belleville East. Then came a game which would have been the highlight of any season that didn't include a win over East St. Louis.

The Warriors' playoff win at Quincy was the most exciting high school football game I have ever seen on its own merits. The East Side game was thrilling because it was East Side. But the Quincy game was a tremendously courageous effort from Jamie Hogan.

He got his bell rung in the first half and played the second half in a daze. But he made some of the most spectacular catches ever coming leading the game-winning touchdown as the Warriors got their first-ever post-season win, 28-20.

The other date to remember is March 14. That was when Jesse Hall finally fulfilled a dream he had held for the town of Venice for so many years. He was recognized as the Red Devils' hope for the future when he was in sixth grade.

And now, in the final game of his high school career, he stood at the free throw line with five seconds left and the state championship on the line. Carrying the magical little village of Venice on his broad shoulders, Hall — not exactly a sure thing at the foul line — sank both shots to give the Devils a 56-54 win over Okawville.

Hall, who hopes to set the Big Ten on fire the next four years at Michigan State, maintained his customary cool in the crucial moments after Okawville's Jeff Leuchterfeld desperation heave fell short at Champaign's Venice players, cheerleaders and fans went wild in celebration of the school's second state championship.

"I knew the shots would either go in or they wouldn't, depending on what kind of a night it was for me," Hall said simply.

It was a good night for Hall. For Clinton Harris, for Rick Everage and for the Devils' fiercely loyal fans. They had almost made an early visit to Champaign the year before when Hall's one-man show left them two points shy of Teutopolis in the Charleston Sur Sectional.

But they weren't to be denied this year. Vincent Harris, Dale Turner, Wilfred Wigfall and Darin Jackson supplied a more-than-adequate supporting cast for Hall, and Harris guided them to a 28-3 season. One of the losses was to eventual large school state champion East St.

SCORING MACHINE: Mike Lane of the Warrior soccer team feeds a ball into the Jugs shooting machine at Gene Baker's Warrior Kickers Camp at Wilson Park Tuesday morning.

Scoring machine stars at Baker's camp

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

Warrior soccer coach Gene Baker has a new scorer in town.

Goalkeepers throughout the area will have a tough time stopping this new offensive powerhouse. The shots come flying at speeds of more than 100 miles per hour, twisting and curling dramatically past the over-matched keepers into the back of the net.

The shot is so powerful it has been known to knock down the back support of the goal. The force of the shots don't seem humanly possible.

There's a good reason for that. We're not talking about a human being. This great new scoring machine is just that — a machine. It's a Jugs machine, manufactured by the same people who have been putting out pitching machines in baseball for so many years.

"The high school booster club got it for us for $1,200," Baker said Tuesday on the second day of his summer soccer camp at Wilson Park. "It's going to help us with a lot of things."

Indeed, as 80 kids went about their drills, the new shooting machine was the hit of the show. Several young goalkeepers stepped into the line of fire assured in the fact that the humans they would be facing in the years to come will never even dream of shooting the ball this hard.

Two rapidly spinning discs propelled the ball through at tremendous velocity. By adjusting the speed of the discs individually, the speed and direction of the balls could be adjusted. The machine can also be tilted at varying angles. At one point, the ball was coming out and moving right along the grass at high speed.

"That's about the toughest kind of a shot to stop," said Baker.

Warrior varsity goalkeeper Randy Chapman was having as tough a time with the machine as the younger keepers. Still, most of them managed to get a piece of some shots. The bad news came when the ball went over the net. The velocity carried it close to 100 yards, far into the softball diamond behind the field.

"It's going to help us a lot in the fall," said Warrior assistant Mel Bunting. "We'll be able to use it in lots of different drills where we won't have to be using players. They can be working on something else."

It only takes one person to feed balls into the machine, and Jugs can kick forever. Several of the current Warrior varsity players were experimenting with the machine when a rocket shot hit the metal support in the back of the net, and down it came. When the machine was able to place an accurate bullet into the corner of the net, Chapman or any of the other would-be goalkeepers looked entirely helpless.

NOTES: Baker said he had about 80 kids out for the camp, which runs this week from 9 a.m. to noon each day. Current Warriors Jeff Grote, Chapman, Mike Lane, Kirk Mills, Mike Seiler, Brett Broadwater, Herb Heaton and John Van Buekirk were out Tuesday morning helping run the camp. Ex-Warrior Tony Segobiano, who just graduated from Western Illinois, was also on hand. Baker, Bunting, Dave Ames and the counselors keep things going at a quick pace with frequent breaks to cope with the hot weather. The counselors demonstrated the drills, then the campers broke into eight groups and went at it.

Ex-Warrior Stuart a state champion

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

Granite City might not have made it to state in baseball, but a former Warrior did it in style.

When the Columbia Eagles won the Class A championship last week, it was not only another victory at state for southern Illinois, but it was also a little credit for the win. Eagle head coach Jim Stuart is a native of Granite City, and he guided Columbia to a 28-3 record and all the marbles.

"It was a great thing for the whole town," said Stuart. "There's only about 4,500 people here, so something like this brings them together. They had never advanced to the state finals in any sport before this year."

So making an appearance at state would have been enough of a thrill. What they did when they got there was just a tasty icing on the cake. They came from behind to beat Rochester in a quarterfinal game at Springfield June 8, scored five late runs to knock out Manito in the semifinals June 9, then really did a number on unbeaten Cobden in the state championship game that night.

Segobiano, Hency in college all-star game

Tony Segobiano and Bill Hency, Granite City, will be playing in the Budweiser Soccer Classic in Cleveland next week.

The classic is an indoor event held prior to the Major Indoor Soccer League draft, which will be June 24 in Cleveland. Scouts and coaches from around the MSL will be on hand to get a look at 60 college seniors split into four teams — the Nationals, the Americans, the Stars and the Stripes.

Segobiano and Hency are both 1983 graduates of Granite City South High School. They played on three of Gene Baker's state championship teams in 1979, 1980 and 1982. Segobiano graduated this year from Western Illinois and Hency from South Carolina.

"I haven't played much indoor soccer up there," Segobiano said of his days at WIU. "But we did have a team that won a Budweiser tournament over in St. Louis last year."

With so many MSL scouts on hand, it's a chance for the seniors to make an impression on the pros.

"It's kind of like the Senior Bowl (in college football)," Segobiano said. "If you do well there, it can really help your position in the draft. I have my degree in finance from Western, so I'm ready to move on into something in that line of work. But if I do well enough to get drafted, that would be something

Hendrickson blanks Highland

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — He makes it look so easy. You wonder why you can't do it. Darin Hendrickson is not an overwhelmingly hard thrower. He can bring it, make no mistake. But he won't leave the radar guns smoking.

Control is his forte, and it happened again Wednesday night. Hendrickson showed that summer baseball would be no different than high school ball as he pitched a five-hit shutout to lead the Triplets to a 6-0 win over Highland Post 499.

Hendrickson got his five different innings against Hendrickson, but never more than one per inning. And in what is becoming a trend for the Warriors, Hendrickson didn't walk anybody. He walked only nine in 76½ innings for the Warriors, didn't walk anybody in getting a win in relief for the Optimists Saturday and was masterful again Wednesday.

"It makes it easy for everyone when you get good pitching like that," said manager Gus Lignoul. "I don't think he knows how to walk people."

The Highland offense was limited to an infield hit by Sean Augustin in the first; a two-out double by Mike Grappenhuis in the fourth; a single by John Blakely in the fifth; a hit by Mike Semmanism in the sixth; and a two-out double by Blakely in the seventh. But Hendrickson got four strikeouts and his teammates made the rest of the plays.

"We've got the people to make the plays," Lignoul said as the Triplets upped their record to 2-1.

Highland starter Phil Barnett set Granite City down in order in the first and retired the last 10 in order, but he ran into big trouble in the second and third innings.

John Moad got an infield hit to start the second and was at third with two outs when Scott LeVault walked. Joe Wallace drove in the first run with a fly ball to center field that fell between a host of Highland players. LeVault went to third on the hit. Wallace stole second, then Hendrickson pumped some air into the margin with a two-run single to right.

Hendrickson stole second and scored the fourth-run of the inning on a single to right by who? — Tim Hogan.

Hogan had originally decided not to play legion ball this summer, but he was talked into it earlier this week by coach Ralph Burnett.

"I was working and I thought I wouldn't have much time for baseball," Hogan said. "But saw Burnett out on the golf course yesterday and he talked to me about it. I found out there wasn't that much to do in the evening anyway, so I decided to come out."

It was kind of a bad atmosphere out here last summer. We were losing and it wasn't much fun. But it should be different with these guys."

Hogan's presence takes care of the center field position on defense and the leadoff spot on offense.

"He solves a lot of problems for us," Burnett said. Granite City added its other two runs in the third when Todd Hinterser walked, Moad singled to center and Burnett threw a wild pitch to score Hinterser. With two outs, Moad scored on a third baseman Steve Koisher tumbled Wallace's ground ball and threw late to first.

That was the Triplets' last else. Getting to play professional soccer is a once-in-a-lifetime chance."

Segobiano and Hency will likely be on different teams at the event, and Segobiano said he was looking forward to playing against Hency.

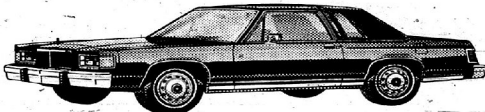

There will be three games played in Cleveland. One game will be televised on a tape-delayed basis by ESPN.

Louis Lincoln — and that was tied after three quarters — and another was a controversial forfeit loss to Lovejoy.

Outside of an 81-33 trouncing of Pearl City in the state quarterfinals, the Devils didn't have a blowout in the post-season. But they proved they could win the tough ones, and even rallied from a seven-point fourth-quarter deficit against Chrisman in the semifinals.

Moments like those can make the rest of the year pale in comparison. But that would be a mistake. It was a year of near misses for Granite City teams. The soccer team came within a 1-0 loss to Collinsville of advancing to state. The baseball team also fell one game short of state. The basketball team, though losing in the first regional game to Lincoln, came tantalizingly close to sharing the SWC crown with Collinsville. A last-second shot by Tim Hogan fell off the rim in a two-point loss to Belleville. West that left Don Deterding as disappointed as I have ever seen a coach. And the hockey team got a rude ending to its season, too, on a sudden death goal by Fox High School which kept the Warriors from clinching a berth in the league finals at the St. Louis Arena.

But there were some happier moments, like Ian Smith's state title for Madison in the 400-meter run and the Trojanettes' two state titles from their relay teams. Terri Selph and Wendy Knollman of Granite City also placed in the state finals.

The year is just a memory now, but what memories. And football practice is only two months away.

Stuart

unbeaten at 38-0 going into the game, but the Eagles were unimpressed as they scored early and often to take a 12-1 game that was called after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

"Everything we had been working for just came together in the title game," Stuart said.

"We put the ball in play and made them make the plays."

Coben couldn't do that, committing six errors as they succumbed to the swooping Eagles.

Columbia pitcher Dave Kossina was named the most valuable player of the tournament with complete game wins over Rochester and Coben.

Stuart was a third baseman at Granite City High School and graduated in 1985. Whatever problems he might have had at third base were often covered up by the kid playing next to him at shortstop.

"Dad Maxvill usually got to everything I couldn't get to," Stuart said of the kid who went on to a long major league career and is now general manager of the Baseball Cardinals.

Stuart and Maxvill played for the Warriors under head coach Al Lewis.

Stuart went to Columbia in 1968 as an assistant and took over the top spot the next year. His previous best team was in 1972 when the Eagles went 21-6, but he waited 20 years for his finest moment.

"I didn't think we were going to be quite this good going into the season," he said. "We were 19-15 last year, but the team just seemed to jell and come together as this year went on."

Stuart's mother, Verna, 88, still lives on Amos Avenue in Granite City. His father, Jim Sr., was a teacher and coach at Granite City High School for many years before ending up at Coolidge Junior High.

The Eagles will lose five seniors from this year's team, but Stuart had two starters who missed part of the year with injuries, and both of them will be back. So he will actually have 13 returning starters.
